

Jacaranda

The Message

We see it as our task to unite different kinds of musical genre in our concerts.

We want to loosen, if not completely break the constraints of musical classification.

We soak up the musical details of the sounds of this world and then play with these. It is of course particularly exciting for us to perform our music in the countries where are inspiration originated.

The fascination of our sounds and melodies reaches out to all generations; it combines classic music with jazz, makes practiced ears listen and unites both rock and folk music followers.

Feelings, emotions and timeless and endless moments of experience are what we touch upon. We communicate in the oldest language of the universe, in the unaffected musical expression of "Esperanto." It is safe to say that we contribute something new, exciting and undiscovered to the personal musical experience of every listener.

This is how we with pleasure can explain the vast national and international enthusiasm for the music of the JACARANDA ENSEMBLE.
